A Four-Fold Accumulator is one bet made up of a four selections in different event. If you win all four selections, you win the bet. If you lose any one selection, you lose the bet. Your bet is multiplied by the odds of each selection to give you the potential return. If you bet $10 and the odds are 2/1, 3/1, 4/1 and 5/1, your potential return is $10 x 2 x 3 x 4 x 5 = $120. If you win, you receive $120 plus your original $10 stake, so you win $130. If you lose any one selection, you lose your $10 stake. This is a high risk bet, but it can be very profitable if you are confident in your selections. You should only bet what you can afford to lose. detecting that a team will win or lose by a certain amount of points. This is a bet where you predict the margin of victory. For example, if you bet on a team to win by 10 points, and they win by 12 points, you win the bet. If they win by 8 points, you lose the bet. This is a more difficult bet to make than a simple win/loss bet, but it can be very profitable if you are confident in your predictions. You should only bet what you can afford to lose. For more information, see our article on margin bets.
